Core competencies

Restricted-availability acquisition

Identification and acquisition of international-origin systems, subsystems, and components that are not available through conventional commercial channels.

Ukrainian unmanned systems

Direct engagement with Ukrainian manufacturers of interceptor, long-range strike, and tactical ISR unmanned aircraft systems with documented operational histories relevant to U.S. counter-UAS programs.

Sustainment and spares

Provision of ZIP kits, spares, and subsystem blocks to sustain acquired systems throughout multi-year test and evaluation programs.

Compliance and logistics

Import registration, end-use documentation, sanctions screening, and U.S.-flag transportation managed as integral elements of each acquisition.

Customers supported

Test and evaluation programs

DoD activities requiring representative foreign systems for the test and evaluation of U.S. sensors, weapons, and countermeasures.

Exploitation and intelligence analysis

Programs that assess foreign materiel to characterize its design, performance, and vulnerabilities.

Threat replication and training

Test ranges, aggressor units, and training programs requiring representative ground and air threat systems.

Prime contractors

Defense prime contractors conducting threat-replication or counter-UAS development in support of U.S. government programs.
